

Whole Health Mental Well-being Solution

International Employee Assistance Programme (IEAP)

Confidential support for everyday problems.

Because mental health matters

Mental health issues can have a broad range of causes, but often they are the result of a combination of factors. These might include stress at work, family issues, social relationships and financial health. Left unchecked, they can severely impact both our physical and mental well-being.

Our International Employee Assistance Programme (IEAP) provides counselling support, behavioural coaching and practical solutions to help you foster natural resilience and coping mechanisms for everyday challenges.

Welcome to IEAP

Whether you need access to confidential counselling, tools to support behavioural health or guidance with practical matters, IEAP offers a 24/7 helpline and advice service to help you resolve any emotional, work or home life issue.

Counselling sessions

In-the-moment support. Single counselling sessions cover various concerns and help you establish a plan to move forward. Sessions are conducted over the phone. You can use this service an unlimited number of times.

Short-term counselling. Identifies your existing skills, strengths and resources to overcome personal and work-related challenges more smoothly. Sessions are conducted over the phone, video or face-to-face in a practice setting. You will be matched to a counsellor who speaks your preferred language. You can use this service to access a maximum of six sessions for each area of focus.

Behavioural coaching

AWARE coaching programme. One-on-one coaching follows a personalised approach to make it easier for you to apply mindful practices and build resilience in everyday life. During the six-week programme, you will learn how to engage, diminish distractions and counteract stress. Sessions are conducted over the phone or by video and can be conducted in English, French, Spanish, German or Mandarin. You can use this service an unlimited number of times.

In My Hands cCBT. Computerised Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (cCBT) sessions provide support if you are experiencing mild to moderate anxiety, stress or depression. This programme includes seven sessions, plus email and telephone support from a qualified counsellor. Sessions are conducted online and in English only. You have unlimited access to the programme for six months, and you may complete the sessions as many times as desired.

Practical needs

Critical incident support. Rapid access to relevant support if you experience a traumatic incident such as a bereavement, terrorist attack, accident, or assault. The type of support offered includes practical advice and information, and counselling.

IEAP website

You can access counsellors and work-life specialists through the LiveCONNECT instant messaging or callback features on the IEAP website. Other website services and resources include up-to-the-minute tailored news in a crisis and relevant articles and information covering parenting, ageing, work and international.

How IEAP works

- Reach out to IEAP. By phone, email, instant message or from the Cigna Wellbeing® app¹ for help and advice with any personal or work-related issue.
- Speak with a clinician. Whether referral for counselling or access to resources, the initial consultation allows you to discuss the next steps.
- Receive targeted support without delay. The clinician matches you to the most appropriate service. Where you are matched to the counselling service, a counsellor will be appointed within two business days of the initial consultation and the first session will be available within five business days.
- Start to feel the benefits. Achieve a happier, healthier state of well-being.
- Monitor your progress. A case manager will check in with you to ensure you're on track.

How you benefit

- Around the clock support. IEAP services are available whenever you need them. So if you're struggling, it's reassuring to know you don't have to cope on your own.
- Open the door to deeper therapy. If it's your first counselling experience, IEAP can offer a bridge to longer-term therapy.
- Greater access and consistency of care. IEAP can help you overcome discrepancies in mental health provision by ensuring fast, reliable access to care and support wherever your journey takes you.
- Global and culturally relevant. Access to multilingual phone and online services and a network of mental health and work-life professionals in over 200 countries.

Calling the service/language support

- Freephone numbers. You'll find a list of free-phone numbers per country on the next page.
- First response. Based on your location/time zone you may be able to immediately connect with a clinician who speaks your local language, otherwise an English speaking clinician will always be available. In urgent cases where a clinician doesn't speak your preferred language and you aren't able to express yourself in English, a translation service will be made available.
- Onward support. Following the initial consultation, the clinician will arrange for any structured counselling in your preferred language.
